ROARSHOCK PAGE

IN THE READING ROOM WITH TWO POETS

In the reading room
with a few other souls.
A tall beautiful woman
stands before me
talking to somebody
in the next row.
I glance behind me
over my left shoulder.
Yonder comes the Jack of Roses (or some guy doing a damn good imitation of the poet I have come here to hear).
I think,
("Here comes my death").
He stops
next to me
and greets
the tall beautiful woman.
She is the other poet
reading on the program.
He borrows a coin
from a man
in the next row
and flips it
to determine which of them
will read first.
Comes up tails.
She reads first
and goes to the podium
and begins to read
her marvelous poem.
